SOLE RECEIVER.

Burleigh to Control Three Fifths of the Northern Pacific Property.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 3.—Following the appointment of Mr. Burleigh as sole receiver of all Northern Pacific property in this state, the United States district courts of Oregon, Idaho and Montana will at once be called upon to concur in or confirm the selection. This, if done, will place more than three fifths of the great Northern Pacific Property under the direct management and control of Mr. Burleigh. Two special trains, one going south to Portland and the other east through Idaho and Montana, left Seattle last evening to make a tour of the states traversed in the ninth judicial circuit by rail, having on board the counsel who participated in the great battle here yesterday.

Mr. Burleigh's appointment appears to give general satisfaction. He will tender his resignation as general counsel for the Oregon Improvement Company within a few days. Before leaving for Portland last evening Mr. Burleigh appointed George W. Dickinson of Tacoma general manager of the road. Heretofore Mr. Dickinson has served the company in the capacity of assistant general superintendent.

When asked by a reporter if he, as the representative of the stockholders, would not abandon the fight against the old receivers, President Ives replied: "We do not intend to abandon our efforts to secure a filing of accounts in this district of the receivers. While I am not prepared to say what the law will permit us to do in this direction, I am very confident that the trustees who have failed to render proper accounts of their trusts cannot evade responsibility by resigning or by being guilty of contumacy, so as to secure their own removal."

YALE AND HARVARD.

Belief that a Football Agreement May be Reached Soon.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 3.—It is thought that before Sunday some sort of a Yale-Harvard football ultimatum will be announced. The managers of both elevens state that after October 5 their schedules will be completed and that no games will be arranged after that date. Yale and Harvard have three dates open about the middle of November, which were left so expressly to allow for the possibility of a Yale-Harvard game on one of them.

Many Harvard graduates in this vicinity have expressed satisfaction at the withdrawal of Professor Ames from the Harvard athletic advisory committee, as they have regarded him as the chief obstacle to a Yale-Harvard game this fall. Aside from his management of the Yale-Harvard football trouble this spring, they express the greatest admiration for his management of the Harvard athletics.

TO MAKE A CONCERTED ATTACK.

Cuban Insurgents Planning to Establish a Seat of Government.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—A Herald despatch from Puerto Principe, Cuba, says: It is believed here that the insurgent chiefs Gomez and Macco are about to make a concerted attack upon Guantanamo. If successful in the capture of the place, they propose to establish there the seat of the Cuban government, which is at present temporarily located in the mountains of Najassa, between Puerto Principe and Santa Cruz del Sul. General E. Rodriguez has been called to assume the command as major general of this province.

To Select a New Rector for the American College in Rome.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—It is announced that Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop of Baltimore, and Archbishops Corrigan of New York, Ryan of Philadelphia and Williams of Boston will propose to the propaganda four candidates for the rectorship of the American College in Rome, from which number the pope will select the successor to the late rector, Monsignor O'Connell.

President Cleveland Back from his Fishing Trip.

BUZZARD'S BAY, Mass., Oct. 3.—President Cleveland and Private Secretary Thurber, who left here Monday night for a two days' fishing trip, returned this morning on the Oneida. Mr. Cleveland is in splendid health and reports a delightful outing.

Big Claims of the Iowa Populists.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 3.—The Populists of central Iowa will open the state campaign by a rally at Runnells Saturday, at which ex-Governor Waite of Colorado will be the chief speaker. The Populists claim they will cast one hundred thousand votes this fall, three times as many as two years ago, and that they will draw largely from the free-silver Democrats who are dissatisfied with the gold-money declarations of their party.

FIRE LOSSES.

Stubborn Blaze in a Brockton Lumber Storehouse.

BROCKTON, Mass., Oct. 3.—An alarm from box 61, about 6 o'clock this morning, called the fire department to a stubborn fire in the two-and-one-half-story wooden building known as the "old mill," on Belmont street, near the corner of Warren avenue, owned by A. P. Poole, contractor, and occupied by Mr. Poole as a storage house for lumber and L. W. Varnum, dealer in wood and coal. Mr. Varnum had an electric motor and valuable wood-cutting machinery, which is a total loss, and Mr. Poole had some $5,000 worth of lumber stored in the building. There was but slight insurance on the building and contents. Mr. Varnum's loss will be about $1,000 and that of Mr. Poole about $4,000.

WINCHESTER, Mass., Oct. 3.—Fire this morning in the bicycle store of George F. Prent, at 1 Thompson street, caused a loss to the two-and-a-half-story building of about $200 to $300, but Mr. Prent figures his loss at $3,000 by fire and water, and has an insurance of $500. The building is owned by H. F. Holbrook and is insured.

COLUMBIA, S. C. Oct. 3.—Last night a fire started in Brookland, a town just across the Congaree river from Columbia, which destroyed eleven stores and residences. It was impossible to get the fire under control until the Columbia department was sent over. It is impossible as yet to estimate the losses.

Abandoned British Steamer Comes Ashore.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—British steamer Sicilia, abandoned, came ashore at Port Quinnery this morning. A boat containing sixteen of her crew, in an exhausted condition, arrived at Padistow, Cornwall, prior to the coming ashore of the steamer. These survivors reported that another boat containing twenty-six of the Sicilia's crew was still unaccounted for. The Sicilia is of 1,836 tons register.

PRIDE OF THE NAVY.

Successful Launching From the Cramps' Shipyard.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—The United States armored cruiser Brooklyn was launched from Cramps' shipyard at 1:07 o'clock yesterday afternoon with the usual accompaniment of the noise furnished by shrieking steam whistles and the cheers of at least 15,000 spectators.

It was exactly 1:07 o'clock when the army of workers knocked the last shores from the cradle of the vessel, and she slowly began her first voyage. It was then that Miss Ida May Schierin, daughter of the city of Brooklyn's mayor, grasped the bottle of American champagne, wrapped in the Stars and Stripes, and, crashing it upon the big cruiser's bow, exclaimed in a loud and firm tone: "I christen thee Brooklyn."

Then the vessel sped down the greased ways as lightly and gracefully as a swan, while everything for miles around possessed of the gift of sound paid her tribute. The shrieking of the whistles of the big shipbuilding works and the numerous craft which dotted the river mingled with the roar of the multitude of humanity which filled every inch of space within the range of vision.

Meantime the newest marvel of marine architecture had plunged into the waters of the Delaware, while her rapidly lowered anchors brought her to a halt in the middle of the stream. It was one of the prettiest launches ever made at the shipyard—the cradle of the new navy.

The launch was crowned with conspicuous success. The christening stand was reserved for the guests from Washington and Brooklyn. Above it towered the cruiser, decorated from stern to stem with the entire code of signals. After the launch an informal luncheon was served in the mould loft of the works.

Second to None.

The Brooklyn was authorized by act of Congress approved July 19, 1892, and her keel was laid the following year. It will have taken three years to complete her. Her contract price was $2,968,000, for hull and machinery, to which a speed premium is to be added, amounting to $50,000 for every quarter knot she exceeds the contract speed of 20 knots.

Neither the British Blake and Blenheim, the Russian Riveik, nor the Spanish Vizcaya could hope to vanquish the Brooklyn which, it may be added, could in all probability do battle with good prospects of victory with many battleships.

The armored cruiser New York is today generally admitted to be not only the finest vessel of her class afloat, but probably the best all-around fighting ship in the world, all things considered.

Yet the armed cruiser Brooklyn promises to be as much superior to the New York as the latter is to her closest rivals. She will have better protection, a heavier armament and, in all probability, a higher speed than the New York.

Comparison of Dimensions.

	Brooklyn.	New York.
Length between perpendiculars	400ft. 6in.	350ft. 6½in.
Extreme breadth	64ft.	64ft. 10in.
Mean draught	24ft.	24ft.
Displacement	9125 tons	8200 tons.

The speed required of both ships by the contracts was 20 knots. The New York made 21, and from the fact that the Brooklyn is longer she will probably exceed this. It is in the battery powers of the two ships, however, that the principal superiority of the Brooklyn is manifest. She will carry, in her main battery, eight 8-inch, against six of the New York, and 12 5-inch rapid fire guns, instead of the same number of 4-inch. She will carry in her secondary battery 12 6-pounder rapid fire guns—the New York having but eight—and four 1-pounders, with four Gatlings.

The 8-inch guns will be carried in four barbette turrets, from 4 to 8 inches thick, made of the best grade of Harveyized nickel steel. There will also be a partial water-belt line, 4 inches thick, and a protective deck from 3 to 6 inches thick.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The requisitions of Congressional Librarian Spofford are passing through the treasury department regularly, and the impression is becoming more general every day that nothing serious is the matter with Mr. Spofford's accounts.

ALMOST UNANIMOUS.

Texas Legislators Say There Shall Be No Prize Fighting in Texas.

AUSTIN, Oct. 3.—Corbett and Fitzsimmons must find another place than Texas in which to pull off their proposed fight for the championship of the world. The legislature, by a vote of 107 to 5, passed the bill prohibiting prize fighting, and thus accomplished the purpose for which the governor assembled it in special session.

The bill that will prohibit prize fighting in Texas in the future, as passed, reads as follows:

Section 1—Be it enacted by the legislature of the state of Texas:

That any person who shall voluntarily engage in a pugilistic encounter between man and man, or a fight between a man and a bull, or any other animal, for money or other thing of value, or for any championship, or upon the result of which any money or anything of value is bet or wagered, or to see which an admission is charged, either directly or indirectly, shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and, upon conviction, shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not less than two nor more than five years.

Sect. 2—By the term "pugilistic encounter," as used in this act, is meant any voluntary fight or personal encounter, by blows, by means of the fists or otherwise, whether with or without gloves, between two men for money or for any championship, or for any other thing of value, or upon the result of which any money or anything of value is bet or wagered.

Sect. 3—That all laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sect. 4—The fact that there is no adequate penalty against prize fighting or pugilism or against fights between men and beasts, creates an imperative public necessity and emergency requiring the suspension of the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three separate days and that this law should be effective and be in force from this passage, and it is hereby so enacted.

Rough Weather on the English Coast.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Numerous wrecks are reported from the Bristol channel and other points along the west coast of England. Altogether, 19 steamships and large sailing vessels and 30 smaller craft are reported to have been lost. Although only 24 lives are known to have been lost, it is feared that many more sailors and fishermen have lost their lives, as the coasts of Devonshire and Somersetshire are strewn with wreckage.

Memorable Church Event.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The Eucharistic congress of the Catholic church was opened here yesterday with pontifical high mass at St. Patrick's church, Mgr. Satolli being the celebrant and Cardinal Gibbons and many archbishops and bishops assisting. The event was one of the most memorable in the history of the church, as with three exceptions all the dignitaries and diocesan heads of the church in America participated.

Representing Spain's Side.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The Spanish government has established a formal news representative in the United States, and Hillary Bell of this city was officially appointed to the position by the Spanish minister at Washington. Mr. Bell will receive simultaneously with the Madrid Imparcial all the war correspondence addressed to that paper by its Cuban correspondent.

More Spies Captured.

BERLIN, Oct. 3.—The authorities of Cologne have taken into custody several additional persons who are charged with being connected with what seems to be a thoroughly organized attempt to spy upon different fortified positions in Germany. It is said that the parties are either French officers, or men in the employ of the French government.

Young Baptists Organize.

OLDTOWN, Me., Oct. 3. — The young people's session of the Maine Baptist anniversary yesterday voted to organize a state society. A committee was chosen to draft a constitution, and a constitution was adopted. The new society will be known as the Baptist Young People's convention A. J. Bedelford, D.D., was elected president.

Going to Pittsburg.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—Dr. Daniel Dorchester, Jr., for 12 years professor of English literature in the College of Liberal Arts of Boston university, has resigned. The reason for his unexpected action is that Professor Dorchester has accepted a call to become pastor of the Christ Methodist Episcopal church of Pittsburg.

Alarming Increase of Cholera.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 3.—The cholera reports received from the province of Vorhynia for the first fortnight for September are quite sensational. It appears that during that period there were 7827 new cases of that disease and 3085 deaths from the same cause.

Mechanics' Fair Opened.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—To the sound of loud music the 19th exhibition of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic association opened in Mechanics' hall yesterday afternoon, the occasion also marking the 100th anniversary of its organization.

Serious Runaway Accident.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 3.—A. S. W. Hubbard, a manufacturer, was badly injured in a runaway accident yesterday. His horse ran away, collided with another horse, and killed the latter. Hubbard's injuries will not prove fatal.

Boston Preacher Called.

FARMINGTON, Me., Oct. 3.—The Old South Congregational church of Farmington has extended a call to Rev. Edward R. Smith of Boston, a graduate of Andover Theological seminary.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 3.—Father Wagner has confessed everything and asks permission to marry Maud Steidt.

Interesting Case Settled.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 3.—When Clinton A. Woodbury died in his office a year ago there were suspicions that he had committed suicide. The Mutual Life Insurance company had two policies of $25,000 each on his life, and the New York Life had also two policies for $25,000 each. The insurance companies resisted payment, and suit was brought by David F. Murdock, who held one of the Mutual Life's $25,000 policies. That company settled yesterday by paying a portion of the policy. The other Mutual Life policy, in favor of the widow, will also be settled on the same terms. The New York Life has effected a settlement of its two $25,000 policies on private terms.

Murder and Arson Attempted.

BARRE, Vt., Oct. 3.—Burglars entered the farmhouse of George Rowell early yesterday morning, attempted to burn the buildings and, perhaps, fatally injured the farmer's wife. At the time of the dastardly deed, Mr. Rowell was at the barn milking the cows. The burglars entered the back door of the house, crept to the room where Mrs. Rowell was asleep, struck her over the head with a club, and then, after plundering the house, set fire to the kitchen. They took two gold watches and a small sum of money, but left no clew.

Boilers Not In Condition.

BOSTON, Oct. 3—The American line steamship St. Paul yesterday attempted to make her preliminary trip over the government trial course, between Cape Ann and Cape Porpoise, but was compelled to abandon the trip, because of the serious priming or foaming of the boilers, due in great part to the fact that the water from the Delaware river, with which the boilers and water bottoms were filled, instead of being fresh water, as was supposed, was really quite brackish, and, therefore, totally unfit for steam-making purposes.

Suicide at Harvard.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 3.—Elliot F. Rogers of Chicago, an instructor in chemistry at Harvard, was found dead in one of the laboratories in Boylston hall yesterday afternoon. Rogers was a hard worker, and became completely broken down in health a year ago. At times he suffered from mental aberration, and his mind had seemed in an unstable condition of late, particularly so since college opened this fall. Dr. Driver and Medical Examiner Durell viewed the body and pronounced it a case of probable suicide.

Captain Swan Suspended.

CHELSEA, Mass., Oct. 3.—The police committee of the board of aldermen, before whom the charges were heard in which Chief Drury charged Captain Swan with being absent from duty without leave, finds the charge sustained, and that Captain Swan violated the rules and regulations of the police department, and sentences him to be suspended from the Chelsea police department for a period of 20 days, with loss of pay.

Water Costs Sometimes

You pay 10 cents for a package of ordinary oatmeal. It has absorbed one-third its weight of moisture, so that you need 3 lbs. of it to equal a 2-lb. package of

GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Fifty years ago, October 2, 1845, Mr. Benjamin Hammett Stevens and Miss Frances Catherine Weaver were married in the house at the corner of Thames and North Baptist streets, where Miss Weaver was born, and yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Stevens celebrated the golden wedding anniversary of their marriage in the same house, in the presence of their children and grandchildren and hosts of friends and relatives. Among the guests were several who were present at the marriage ceremony fifty years ago, many friends of earlier days, Mayor Boyle and several of Mr. Stevens's fellow-members of the board of aldermen, members of the common council, members of Rhode Island Lodge of Odd Fellows, of which Mr. Stevens was one of the charter members and has been for many years permanent secretary, and city officials. Among the gifts was a basket decorated with golden-rod and containing fifty dollars in gold from friends, a handsome basket of flowers from the mayor and board of aldermen and numerous floral offerings and smaller gifts. Alderman and Mrs. Stevens received their guests in the same room in which they were married.

FIRE ON CODDINGTON STREET.

An alarm was rung at 12:30 o'clock this morning, or, as many would call it, last night, for a fire in the house at the corner of Coddington and Charles streets, owned by Joseph V. Coen, and occupied by Benjamin Townsend. It is a small, old one-and-a-half-story building, and the fire was upstairs. The family, assisted by the neighbors, promptly moved their personal belongings out of doors and the firemen went to work. The fire did not amount to much, but it very effectually damaged the middle of the roof and the upstairs section of the dwelling. It is supposed to have originated in a small closet near the kitchen chimney, used for storage. There was no insurance on the house, and Mr. Coen does not know whether it is best to tear it down or try to repair it.

MARRIED AT WAKEFIELD.

Miss Helen Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah P. Robinson of New York, was married yesterday to Frederick Bull, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lanman Bull, also of New York, in the Ascension Church, at Wakefield. The ceremony was followed by a breakfast at "Emdalar," the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, between Wakefield and Narragansett Pier. The bridesmaids were Miss Elizabeth Robinson, sister of the bride; Miss Edith Woodward, Miss Ethel Wickam, Miss Edna Barger and Miss Laura Lanman of Hartford. The best man was the bridegroom's brother, Henry Worthingham Bull, and the ushers were D. T. Lanman Robinson, brother of the bride; Jonathan Turnbull Lanman, W. B. O. Field, Oliver H. P. LaFarge, R. U. W. Moss and Gurdon M. Maynard.

TESTIMONIAL TO GENERAL RHODES.

In accordance with an act of the General Assembly, passed in 1892, the testimonial ordered to be presented to Brigadier General Elisha H. Rhodes has been finished and is now on exhibition in Providence. The bronze is of a design embodying the insignia of the state and emblematic of the services for which it is given. The shield was designed and cast in bronze by the Campbell Metcalf Silver Company, which has produced a most elaborate and at the same time appropriate testimonial, expressing appreciation of the services of Brigadier General Rhodes, while in command of the Rhode Island militia from 1879 to 1892, when he was succeeded by Brigadier General Hiram Kendall.

The shield is of original and artistic design, measuring about 27 by 36 inches, and executed in high relief—dignified, yet ornate. The shield itself is surmounted by the coat of arms of the state, flanked on either side by three flags, falling in graceful folds. The shield contains the inscription in raised letters, "State of Rhode Island in General Assembly, January Session, A. D. 1892. Resolved that the General Assembly representing the people of Rhode Island hereby expresses its thanks to Brigadier General Elisha H. Rhodes for the ability, zeal and fidelity displayed by him while in command of the brigade of Rhode Island militia, June, 1879, March, 1892." On either side in etched treatment are "U. S. Volunteers, 1861-1865" and "Rhode Island Militia, 1879-1892." The American eagle, cannon and crossed sabres form the decorations on the base, while a handsome scroll encloses the whole. The bronze is a very handsome and artistic specimen of the bronze founders' art.

THE STATE INSTITUTIONS.

From September 1 to October 1 there has been a decrease in the number of inmates at the state institutions in Cranston of 29. The total number of inmates at all the institutions October 1 was 1926, classified as follows: House of Correction, 174 men, 79 women—253; Asylum for the Insane, 314 men, 315 women—629; State Almshouse, 130 men, 139 women, 25 boys, 20 girls—314; State Prison, 148 men, 1 woman; Providence County Jail, 277 men, 26 women—303; Sockanosset School for Boys, 248; Oaklawn School for Girls, 30.

CUBA AND THE SUGAR TRUST.

The attempt to make it appear that the revolution in Cuba is simply a sugar speculation carried on by those interested in the sugar trust is not a means of accounting for this uprising that will satisfy the American mind. The sugar trust has a great burden of responsibility to carry for misdeeds committed during the last five or six years, but it is quite improbable that its emissaries could have purchased, as it is said that they did, a supply of sugar sufficient for two years, and, having cornered the market, have induced the Cuban rebels to enter upon a revolution. The revolution in Cuba, so far as evidence goes, had its origin in the gradual conviction that the grievances which the people were called upon to bear could not be endured any longer. Whether or not the sugar trust, either through its individual members or as an organization, has contributed money to aid the rebellion is a matter concerning which we know nothing; but it can be said that a number of individuals who are largely interested in the sugar trust, and at the same time are owners of sugar plantations in Cuba, have been seriously incommoded by the insurrection, and would most vehemently protest if they thought that the sugar trust had been instrumental in causing them this loss.

The Cuban patriots have had on this occasion the same class to appeal to that has contributed to their cause in years past. There are quite a number of native Cubans, men of large resources, who have contributed liberally on other occasions in the hope of bringing about the independence of their country, and it is probable that they have been equally ready with their gifts of money on the present occasion. It is possible also that the revolutionists, through those in control of their movements, have made arrangements with certain speculative banking houses that have been willing to make advances, with the understanding that if the movement succeeds claims made by them will be recognized to a far greater amount than the money advanced. Then it is also possible that they have received contributions from Americans who think that the cause is one deserving of support, but it does not seem probable that the sugar trust, as such, has actively interested itself in the matter. —[Boston Herald.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION IN NEW YORK.

Within five weeks of election day the people of New York are threatened with one gang of toughs and two coteries of fools as the purveyors of candidates for their votes for local offices. The Good Government clubs, self-satisfied and fatuous, have already presented one set; the Republicans, boss-ridden and deluded, are talking of making strictly partisan nominations of another set, while Tammany, hungry and unscrupulous, will surely put up a third ticket. Not one of these will be satisfactory to the people of New York. To restore Tammany to power would be as wise as for a shepherd to intrust his flock to a pack of wolves, and while either of the other tickets may be composed of reputable men, neither has the least chance of success.

A complete union of all the elements opposed to Tammany, misrule ought to be secured. The call for the formation of another Committee of Seventy deserves to be obeyed by all reputable citizens, irrespective of party. A combination ticket of good men is the only way in which Tammany can be defeated, and immediate steps should be taken to nominate one. As organization is necessary to success, the sooner the new Committee of Seventy—or whatever other form the friends of good government may unite upon—gets to work the better. Some such nucleus is needed to bring the "Goo Goos" and the Republicans to their senses and to defeat Tammany.—[New York Herald.

AUTUMN SONG.

A song of the reaping-time,
Of the feast days of the year;
A song of the grain and the well filled wain,
And the husking-time that's near.
Here's hey, for a merry romp
In the brown old fields and vales!
And ho, for the mead where the cattle feed,
And ho, for the autumn gales!
A hunt through the tall, dim woods
For the fruit of the oak and vine
A peep at the nest of the last robin-breast,
And a call where the chipmunks dine.
A smile in the morning skies,
And a laugh in the streams that flow,
As they share their joy with the girl and boy
That today may a-rambling go.

—[Frank Walcott Hutt, in October St. Nicholas.

SONG.

The song we never sung
The pine-trees sigh in chorus;
The eyes our eyes must shun
Our hearts keep still before us.

The rose we gathered not
Blooms in the soil forever.
And hands ne'er joined in life
Death has no power to sever.

—[Lilla Cabot Perry, in the October Century.

....One of the most interesting characters in a way in Chicago is said to be a "newsboy" who bears the title of Baron and one of the proudest names in North Germany. He is Baron Richard von Sydow. Every day Von Sydow goes his rounds with a bundle of papers so big that he can hardly carry it, for he is seventy years old now and has lost the vim that distinguished him as a young lieutenant years ago in the Blücher Hussars in his native land. He is the son of General William von Sydow, who fought at the battle of Waterloo. He is also connected by marriage with the family of the Princess Bismarck. The baron, when a young man, was a guest at the marriage of the ex-chancellor and loves to tell what a fine stalwart popular fellow Herr von Bismarck was in those days. Von Sydow, it is said, tiring of the life at home on a small pittance, came to this country in 1861 and served as a captain in the famous 12th Illinois cavalry. He took up service again in Prussia, but soon came back to America, where, however, he has had difficulty in getting along.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

Modern Christian science, so called, is one of the most dangerous theories put forth to the public. It in itself may be harmless, as are all mere theories, but when applied to innocent and helpless children, and others who are stricken with disease, it is scarcely less than criminal, and doubtless many a life has been sacrificed to its pretensions.

Several cases have recently attracted public attention. In one instance, where typhoid prevailed, all medical aid was refused and in its stead a praying band went from house to house in its office of faith-healing. And while it does not appear that especial physical results followed, it is distinctly charged that the healers carried the disease from one place to another and were thus the instruments of spreading rather than curing it. Such being the case, it is surely within the province of the laws to punish such violators of sanitary regulations, in the interest of the whole community, and prevent a repetition of the offence.

In another case the parents of a child refused the services of a physician and trusted what is known as "absent treatment," whereby the case was submitted to one many miles away, who undertook to bring the little one back to health by prayer and fasting. The child died, and the coroner finds according to the facts, but excuses the parties to the transaction because they meant well. On that point there is no doubt, but it is difficult to see just how the parents and those who had control of the child can be acquitted of blame on that account. "They did not wilfully and knowingly wrong the child, but nevertheless their eccentricity of opinion was the probable cause of its death. Society is bound to act on the rational presumption that in the treatment of diseases those physicians who make a thorough study of the body and its ailments are alone qualified to treat it in disease, and that neglect to employ such physicians is reprehensible and, when death is apparently due to such neglect, is criminal." Such an estimate of the case is worthy of careful consideration. Sincerity in such matters is no evidence of right doing, for even Saul of Tarsus in his greatest wickedness honestly believed that he was doing God's service.

The public has no right to abandon the helpless sick to vagaries of this kind. They are entitled to care and protection and should have it, no matter who stands in the way. It is a delicate subject, because of the evident honesty of purpose and the sincere faith of those who assume these responsibilities. As a matter of belief it is no affair of the public, but when it comes to be a case of life and death and to involve the safety of the community, it is another thing.

CHURCHMEN IN COUNCIL.

The triennial convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church, which opened its session yesterday, is attracting considerable attention from the general public, because of the radical and almost revolutionary propositions which it is said will be brought forward for consideration. We doubt if all these projects materialize, or at least take on sufficient proportions to occupy much of the time of that august body. The Protestant Episcopal Church is noted for its conservatism, and is not likely to now virtually confess its doctrines and standards so deficient as to render it necessary to make such sweeping changes as in certain quarters are suggested.

Still there is room for progress in non-essentials, and that too without a confession of structural weakness. It is, too, a growing church, and has no need to revolutionize itself in order to be in touch with the people. One of the changes on the program refers to the creation of a new office, which appears to be well calculated to increase its efficiency and seems to be meeting with popular favor both within and without church limitations. We quote one of our exchanges:

"The senior bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church, in the order of consecration, is known as the presiding bishop. He is virtually the primate of the church in this country—"primus inter pares"—but he is usually superannuated. The Bishop of Connecticut, who now holds this office, is eighty-eight; the Bishop of Rhode Island, who is next in order, is eighty-three, and already broken down. In the meetings of the House of Bishops the presiding bishop seldom presides, a chairman being chosen for that purpose, and matters requiring his action very commonly have to be attended to by somebody else. Of course this difficulty would not arise if the primacy were attached to a metropolitical see, which is the usual rule. But the Episcopalians apparently still shy at the idea of an archbishop, and it is proposed that the House of Bishops shall designate the presiding bishop, who thus might sometimes come to the office while still able to perform its duties. It is also suggested to call him primus, after the Scottish use, but this is a detail."

TEXAS ON PRIZE FIGHTING.

It looks as though Governor Culberson of Texas is to come out ahead in his efforts to prevent prize fighting in that state. He set out to do so under the laws as they stood, and when the court interpreted those statutes adversely he called the legislature together and asked for a new law which should put all doubtful questions at rest.

That body met at the state capital and promptly proceeded to business. A draft of the legislation desired was submitted and in two days the bill became a law, going into effect on and after its passage. As this was "emergency" legislation, it required a two-thirds vote to enact it, which was given with a will, and the whole country has an opportunity to extend congratulations to the Lone Star state.

There is now no state unless it be Rhode Island, where a prize fight can be openly carried on without the interference of the authorities. Illinois, Missouri, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana and Utah have preserved their self-respect through special legislation or special efforts well directed to stamp out the evil. The Texas law prohibits the fighting of animals as well as brutal men, for money, and so puts up a bar against the bull-fight abomination which is sought to be engrafted on our institutions. It is well that these things are outlawed in all civilized countries, even though the outlaws may contrive methods occasionally to exhibit their low and vulgar passions to each other.

THE TREACHEROUS LAKES.

The recent destructive storms on the western lakes, and their frequent occurrence at this season of the year and later, has led to a considerable discussion concerning the dangers of lake travel, which are conceded to be much greater than those of the ocean. The Chicago News remarks that "this is the season of the year when people who stay on shore are thrown into their regular autumn wonderment why people who love the lake do not know enough to let her alone after September 1. The great, blue beauty, with a majesty which justifies the dwellers on her western shores in their never-ending praise of her loveliness, is as treacherous as the usual handsome creature of her sex, and while she lures with her myriad unequaled charms she is as untrustworthy as the ancient siren who played such havoc with classic mariners. Old lake captains long ago learned that the big body of water east of us is to be wooed only in those months when the oyster is forbidden. While the epicure delights in the succulent mollusk the bronzed old sailors stay on shore, and it is not until the passing of the "r" months that they turn their prows seaward. The larger excursion steamers draw out of the competition early in the fall and discreetly wait till the next season for further work. But the smaller boats, with no other excuse whatever except an inordinate yearning for shekels, insist on darting the crafty waves so long as they can find a single venturesome passenger, and in the meantime the life-saving crews hover around in wet garments in the chill, autumn winds, waiting for a new cry of distress from some disabled vessel."

Some of our people who are especially interested will be pleased to learn that the great iron and steel plant at Middlesboro, Tenn., is to be put in operation at once, and one furnace with a capacity of two hundred tons a day has already been put in blast. These works were built with English capital at a cost of $2,500,000, and were to have a capacity of eight hundred tons of iron and seven hundred tons of steel a day. Around them was built a town, and the whole formed one of the most complete boom-town speculations ever exploited in this country. When the Barings failed the crash came, and it is only now that sufficient recovery has been made to permit of the starting of a single furnace.

It is announced that Professor Daniel Dorchester of Boston University has received and accepted an invitation to become pastor of Christ Church in Pittsburg, Penn. This is understood to be one of the most important Methodist Episcopal parishes in America. Professor Dorchester is a son of Rev. Dr. Dorchester, well known as an author and in connection with educational work among the Indians.

Mr. Moody addressed the Sunday school convention in Fall River yesterday, and created a profound impression. He is holding revival services each evening in New Bedford.

Twenty-three New Haven boys were arrested for thieving last month, which is a bad record for so good and moral a city. It is an important problem what to do with bad boys.

The impression that Librarian Spofford's accounts are not so badly mixed as was reported appears to be justified by facts.

China yielded promptly to the demands of Great Britain. There were fourteen war ships in sight.

THE NEW OLYMPIC GAMES.

The proposal, adopted by the athletic congress at Paris last summer, to hold international contests once in every four years, needs of course no recommendation to Anglo-Saxons, who are today the athletic race par excellence, as the ancient Hellenes were in their age—the only two races, one may say, that have cultivated athletics in the fullest and noblest sense. These international meetings will doubtless be welcomed by Englishmen and Americans, not merely as affording them opportunities of proving their own superiority, but as promising to be a powerful agent in promoting the cause universal of athletics, so dear to the Anglo-Saxon heart. For these quadrennial contests will be open to those only who cultivate manly sport out of love of the thing itself, and not for sordid gain, and the meetings conducted in this spirit can evoke only noble emulation, which, added to the closer intimacy to be established between the athletes of all nations, cannot fail to be of much benefit to the world at large.

And it was surely a happy thought that suggested the inauguration of these new Olympic games in the home of the famous festivals of yore in honor of the "father of gods and men." Methinks even those classical dreamers who will consider it a rude sacrilege to apply the hallowed appellation to meetings of modern sportsmen in jerseys and knickerbockers, to bicycle races and cricket matches, will be somewhat appeased at the thought that the first of these proposed gatherings is to be held, if not in the Elean Altis (for very practical considerations), yet on the plain of violet-crowned Athens, in the Pan-athenaic stadion at the foot of "flowery hill Hymettus, and by the blue waters of Salamis and Phaleron.

In Greece the proposal has been taken up with an enthusiasm worthy of those who cheered the victors at the great Pan-hellenic gatherings of old. The pessimistic arguments of wiseacres (of whom there is as great an abundance in Greece as in other countries) as to the difficulties in the way have not succeeded in combating this decision. The appeal to the glorious traditions of the past, coupled with so much promise of good for the Greek youth of today and of the future, had been made to the nation, as it were, by the civilized world; and to this appeal, as the crown prince said in his speech to the committees, "there could be but one answer." From all classes of society, from all parts of the country, the answer was unanimous.

The scene of the ancient Pan-athenaean games has for centuries lain bare and desolate. The general form of this artificial adaptation of a natural hollow has not been effaced by time, but the seats of white marble with which that public-spirited Athenian of the age of the Antonines—Herodes Atticus—covered its immense embanked slopes, thereby nearly exhausting the quarries on Pentelikon, have all disappeared into the lime kilns of the middle ages. When King George had the place carefully excavated, at his own expense, twenty-five years ago, all that remained of that vast mass of marble was the upper goal and the curb of the spheudoné, or circular end. Today another Herodes Atticus has come forward, in the person of the leader of the thirty thousand Greek residents of lower Egypt, to restore this monument of Athenian splendor, and Athens will again have its stadion, perhaps more purely classic in its architectural details than it was under the artistic decadence of the Roman empire. For the present only the first three rows of seats around the whole course and the entire height of the circular end will be done in marble, the remaining rows of seats being executed in common stone or wood, and gradually replaced by marble. But even next year it will present to the eye a most magnificent amphitheatre, capable of seating thirty thousand spectators, if not fifty thousand, as of yore. The entire length of the stadion course is 670 feet, by 109 feet breadth, thus giving a level area of 8,100 square yards for the gymnastic contests and field sports, with a broad track for the foot-races. The statue of Mr. Averoff, executed by the well-known Athenian sculptor Brutos, is to be erected at the entrance.—[Harper's Weekly.

CHILDISH UNTRUTHS.

It may be readily thought that no child who has the intelligence to make statements at all could make false ones without some little consciousness of the falsity. But here I suspect we judge harshly, applying adult tests to cases where they are inappropriate. Anybody who has observed children's play and dramatic talk, and knows how readily and completely they can imagine the non-existent so as to lose sight of the existent, will be chary of using the word lie. There may be solemn sticklers for truth who would be shocked to hear the child in play saying, "I am a coachman," "Dolly is crying," and so forth. But the discerning see nothing to be alarmed at here. Similarly, when a little girl of two years and six months, after running over a pretty long series of sounds devoid of all meaning, said, "It's because you don't understand me, papa." Here the love of mystery and secrecy, aided by the dramatic impulse, made the nonsense real talk. The wee thing doubtless had a feeling of superiority in talking in a language which was unintelligible to her all-wise papa.

On much the same level of moral obliquity are those cases where a child will say the opposite of what is told, turning authoritative utterances upside down. A quaint instance is quoted by Compayre from Guyau. Guyau's little boy (age not given) was overheard saying to himself: "Papa parle mal, il n dit sceelle; belle parle bien, il dit scerielle." Such reversals are a kind of play, too; the child is weary of being told he is wrong, and for the moment imagines himself right and his elders wrong, immensely enjoying the idea.—[Professor James Sully, in the Popular Science Monthly.

GENERAL MILES COMES IN.

The people of the United States will join with the army in welcoming to the command of the army Major General Nelson A. Miles, whose assignment to that important position has been unofficially announced. General Miles is one of those wide-awake, active men who, no matter what the line upon which their energies move, are leaders of their fellows. He brings to his new and highly honorable position more of real military experience than the office has known for some time, and there is in his incoming, abundant promise of greater military efficiency in the army and in that closely related force, the National Guard. Himself a volunteer from the beginning of his military career, General Miles thoroughly appreciates the value of the citizen soldier, and it is safe to predict that whatever he can do will be done to bring about profitable intimacy between the troops of the regular establishment and of the various states. Possessed of knowledge, large experience and more than the average quantity of that uncommon common sense, General Miles must not be surprised if the American people expect of him a great deal.—[Washington Star.

AN EVENT IN LITERATURE.

The announcement of Mr. Rudyard Kipling that his series of jungle stories is finished marks the completion of a feat unique in literature. During all the short period in which he has risen to prominence in the world Mr. Kipling has sustained public interest by a series of surprises. He has varied his work. On the theory that it is well to work one vein at a time, work it hard and then leave it for fresher matter, he has gone by turns from fantastic special articles to barrack-room ballads, from stories of social life in India to stories of life in London. In his last departure, however, he has gone so far outside all previous known lines of literary work as to invent something like a new form of literary expression. Fairy stories the world has had in abundance; stories of the world of nature it has had, but never has it had stories like these. Mr. Kipling seems to have fairly probed the inner consciousness of the brute kind, and used his insight in evoking a parable which is more than romance and not less than poetry and has enough of philosophical ballast to keep his future students busy digging for esoteric meanings.

Mr. Kipling has never handled life with the absolute fidelity and directness which mark the great realists of the French and Russian schools. It is doubtful if he would want to do so if he could. But he has done things which no one had before conceived, and this remarkable trait of originality is the high-water mark of his genius. The jungle stories are likely to constitute an event in literature, not because of their charm, but because in a wholly new way they tap the mainsprings of nature. It is entirely probable that some years hence Kipling will be plagued with a cult devoted to discovering new philosophies beneath these stories of the economy, ethics and society of man's companions in the jungle.—[Chicago Record.

The next number of the Critic, to be issued October 12, will be a bicycle number, containing the poems to which the editors have awarded the first and second prizes offered in August last for the best two poems on bicycling or the bicycle: a bibliography of bicycling, etc., and an account of the attitude of American authors toward the wheel, besides other matters of interest in this connection.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS.

The conditions have remained practically unchanged since the last report. Clouds and scattered showers prevail in the far Northwest this morning, and rain has fallen in central and northern Texas. There continues to be no well-defined disturbance within vision, except that the barometer is falling slowly on the south Atlantic coast, indicating the probable presence of a West Indian storm beyond the range of observation. A slight rise in temperature is noted at nearly all stations, and freezing weather is confined to the region around Lake Superior. Variable winds of moderate velocities prevail on the Atlantic coast.

ARMY ASSIGNMENTS.

Transfer of Officers Incident to the Accession of General Miles.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The assignment of Major General Miles to succeed General Schofield in command of the army will occasion the transfer of a number of officers on duty in Washington, the more important of which will be in the adjutant general's department. The details of the five assistant adjutant generals on duty here are all changed. Colonel Vincent, who has been on duty at army headquarters since General Schofield was placed in command of the army, will have charge of the new division of military information. Major Babcock, who has been in charge of this work, will still remain on duty at the War Department, and have charge of matters pertaining to enlisted men. Major Hall, who has dealt with the enlisted force, will relieve Colonel Gilmore, who has been in charge of the detail of officers, especially to colleges. Colonel Gilmore will relieve Colonel Corbin, who has been the principal assistant adjutant general. Colonel Corbin is assigned to duty as adjutant general of the department of the East, headquarters at New York city, relieving Colonel Breck, who is assigned to duty at army headquarters, to assume the work relinquished by Colonel Vincent. General Miles's selections of his aides de camp have not yet been announced.

Governors' Day at the Brockton Fair.

FAIR GROUNDS, BROCKTON, Mass., Oct. 3.—The second day of the twenty-first annual fair of the Brockton Agricultural Society bids fair to eclipse all previous records for second day's receipts. The forenoon opened with clear, warm weather and little wind, and the crowd began to arrive early. The day is Governors' day. Mayor Whipple met Governor Greenhalge in Boston and accompanied him here on a special train. At noon there were nearly thirty thousand people on the grounds.

APPELLATE COURT.

The court met again this morning, with the full bench present, consting of Chief Justice Matteson and Justices Tillinghast and Douglas.

The hearing in the contested divorce case of Jennie Champlin vs William A. Champlin was resumed. The respondent, who was his own counsel, was a witness. In cross-examination he admitted that he spent most of his time working on "quadratic equations" ("squaring the circle" Colonel Sheffield called it), and added that his work had been before three professors of mathematics and they had said it was correct. He freely admitted that he had been arrested for illegal use of the mails, and asked: "Why don't you ask me if the indictment was nol prossed?" It appeared that this was the fact, and he added that he hadn't put anything in the mails. He said that he had said that if his wife continued proceedings against him he would blacken her character as much as she did his. He mentioned a number of places at which he had tried to obtain work, and said he had tried innumerable places but was refused, being told that he was too old; too much broken up. He went to work for the Society of the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. He was associated with Mr. Potter, and appealed to the court to sustain his statement that he drew papers but did not speak, Mr. Potter doing the talking. He added that he had been in the army, where he contracted chronic disease, and is now a total wreck. Referring to his work, he said he raised the house unaided and worked on the barn.

William Champlin, son of the parties, aged twenty and himself married, testified about the stacks of paper his father had, on which his arithmetic had been worked out. He thought his father could have been clerking instead of doing this, for he was a good penman.

The father was evidently very nervous and otherwise pretty thoroughly wrecked, and later the court decided that he was not able to support a wife, and denied the petition.

In the contested divorce case of Mary Casey vs. James Casey, also, the court does not grant a divorce, but an order is to be entered in regard to Mrs. Casey's seeing the children, who are now with Mr. Casey. It was understood that there was no objection to the mother seeing the children once a week or once a fortnight at some proper place in Newport (Saturdays from 2 to 5 o'clock was mentioned, the court being careful that their school work should not be interfered with and that the place be a proper one); and visiting the grandmother in New York, during vacation, was mentioned.

The number of uncontested divorce cases not being large the court did not separate, but they were heard by the full bench. First came Eleanora Rosen vs. Morris Rosen, who were married in Europe in January, 1876. The respondent now resides in Boston. This is the case from which Mr. Callaghan recently withdrew his appearance for respondent. The charges were extreme cruelty and non-support, but little was said as to the first charge. It appeared that respondent used to be about the petitioner's shop; had some difference with her as to conducting the business; never supported her, and after he failed, three years ago, went away and had not been seen by her, or done anything for her, since. The witnesses were the petitioner, Romeo E. Gladding and Annie Sullivan, a daughter of petitioner. The divorce was granted.

Next came Herbert W. Northup vs. Margaret (Kelly) Northup. They were married at Newport and lived in Seekonk, Mass. The charge was willful desertion for more than five years. The wife's whereabouts not being known, an advertisement giving notice of the case was published, but no response was made. The husband testified that he went away one day with a load of wood and when he came back his wife was missing. He hadn't seen her since. She left word that if he wanted to find her he could hunt for her. She had been intimate with the son of her husband's employer and he said the son left the night before she did. This was in 1882, and they had had no trouble. One of the witnesses summoned was absent, but the court finally granted the divorce without his evidence. Mr. Galvin appeared for the petitioner.

Albert W. Scott vs. Eugenia E. Scott was next heard, Colonel Sheffield appearing for petitioner. The parties were married February 29, 1884, in Fall River, and the husband testified that his wife had left him three times. The charge was adultery. There were four or five witnesses, but the evidence was none too substantial. There was no response in the case, however, and the court finally granted a divorce.

Annie M. Hart vs. John Hart was heard, although it looks a good deal as if it would be held up on a technical question as to the return of the person who served notice on the respondent in New York city, where the couple resided for the brief space of about eight months. The allegations were cruelty and non-support. Mr. Callaghan appeared for petitioner, who testified that her husband seldom came home sober, and had three times violently assaulted her, besides twice threatening her life. They were married February 12, 1893. There is a child, seventeen months old. The husband paid the rent, and the wife's mother paid for the support. The last named, Mrs. Bohanna, testified that her son-in-law came in drunk, pulled his wife out of bed and beat her, and used vile words. Witness saw him a few months ago and tried to induce him to give something for the support of the child, but the effort was futile. Divorce and custody of the child were granted to petitioner.

This finished the hearings, but the court had received a telegram, in consideration of which, instead of adjourning, a recess was taken from 11:44 to 1 o'clock.

TESTIMONIALS TO GEORGE T. DOWNING.

There was a notable presentation this afternoon at the residence of Mr. George T. Downing, where a large company assembled to pay a tribute to Mr. Downing, one of the representative men of his race in America. The delegation consisted of James Jefferson, James E. Johnson, Judge John H. Ballou, Hon. John A. Jenkins, Richard Grant, Thomas W. Greene, Emory B. Turner, Alexander P. Gorham, J. S. Bowen and George H. Combeck of Providence; D. A. Rudd of Detroit; Thomas G. Williams, Silas Dickerson, Henry W. Cooper, Rev. William H. Thomas, Jefferson Morrison, William S. S. De Coursey, and A. J. Tabb of this city and Edwin G. Walker and James L. Low of Boston.

The following, on parchment, engrossed and in a gilt frame, was presented to Mr. Downing by Mr. Thomas G. Williams of this city:

To George T. Downing: A testimonial from friends in Rhode Island and elsewhere. Men who dare mark the pathway others should follow, men who pass unselfish lives in their devotion to the cause of humanity, are guide posts along the highway of history. A fearless advocate of equal rights, leading the fight for equal school facilities and privileges for colored children in the public schools; for equal suffrage and against all forms of unjust discrimination, in Rhode Island in particular and in the United States in general; an able counsellor in the hour of danger, a contemporary and co-worker with Sumner, Garrison, Phillips, Douglas and John Brown in the battle of freedom, George T. Downing deserves well of his fellow-countrymen. In recognition of his efforts along these lines, we, the undersigned, offer this scroll and the cane and pen accompanying it in token of our high esteem.

The signers were T. H. Crowley, L. C. F. Garvin, Arthur Boone, Levi H. Young, Thomas G. Williams, Henry Cooper, Silas Dickerson, Jefferson Morrison, George E. Rice, W. S. S. DeCourcey, Clarke C. Brown, Wm. Valentine, J. S. Bowen, Joseph H. Banks, E. D. McGuinness, D. A. Rudd, Alexander P. Niger, John H. Ballou, M. Camp Hughes, Richard Grant, George Henry, E. C. Benzard, Jr., Thomas W. Greene, James E. Johnson, John Rudd, Alfred Fry, W. H. Johnson, James McMalley, James L. Carr, John A. Jenkins, George P. Combeck, Andrew J. Kennedy, T. Hefferman, E. C. Benzard, Alexander Gorham, A. P. Nerone, E. J. Walker and James Jefferson.

Mr. Joseph Jefferson of Providence presided. Mrs. Hannah W. Greene of Providence presented Mr. Downing with a bouquet of flowers. Speeches were made by Hon. J. H. Ballou and D. A. Rudd of Detroit. Mr. Downing, who was taken by surprise, made a feeling and patriotic speech. A collation was furnished at Mr. Downing's house by a local committee, headed by Mr. T. G. Williams.

THE ASYLUM DINNER.

The annual dinner and entertainment for the inmates of the City Asylum, provided from the income of the bequest of the late Joseph M. Hammett, took place at the asylum on Broadway this afternoon. A turkey dinner, with all the usual accompaniments, was prepared by Mrs. Wilbor and a corps of assistants and served to the inmates in their dining rooms. At 2:30 o'clock, an entertainment, consisting of instrumental selections by the Mandolin and Guitar Club and songs by Mr. F. A. Fredericks, was given for the inmates, in the chapel. The club played several selections and Mr. Fredericks sang "The Life of a Sailor," the Armorer's song from "Robin Hood" and "Don't Forget your Grandmother."

In connection with the dinner the annual inspection of the asylum by the City Council took place. Mayor Boyle, Aldermen Stevens, Tilley, Openshaw and O'Neill, Councilmen Carr, Barker, Townsend, Moffitt and Wilbor Rev. S. I. Carr, Mr. James L. Hazard, Mr. B. W. Pearce and Mr. George H. Plumer accompanied Mr. Wilbor, the keeper, about the grounds and through the building, making a thorough inspection and finding everything in first-class order. Upon their return from the inspection they were invited by President Hammett of the board of aldermen and President Comstock of the common council to partake of a dinner similar to that provided for the inmates, which was found to be good enough for any one. An hour was spent at the table, and the guests were then invited to listen to the entertainment in the chapel. The greater portion of the company remained and passed another pleasant hour. At supper the inmates were served with ice cream to conclude the day's feast and pleasures.

THE GOLF TOURNAMENT.

The play in the national championship golf tournament yesterday afternoon completed the fourth or semi-final round, in which Dr. Charles B. MacDonald was pitted against Dr. Charles Claxton and Charles E. Sands against F. J. Amory. Dr. Claxton, who had made an excellent impression in his earlier games, made a poor showing against Dr. MacDonald, the latter winning 8 up, 7 to play. The match between Sands and Amory was followed with much interest, chiefly because of the unexpected showing Sands was making. Amory covered the first nine holes in 50 to Sands's 54, yet Sands was one up at nine hole and two up at 10 hole. Amory was able to halve 11 hole by a very long and accurate put. The Boston man played better from that out, and, although he got into great difficulties before 15 hole he won it. On 16 hole, however, he lost the match, going into a bunker on his second stroke. On strokes, Sands beat Amory one, the score standing 91 to 92. The score by holes was: Sands beat Amory 3 up, 2 to play.

A handicap match was played during the day with twenty entries. The three winning players were as follows:

Names.	Gross.	Handicap.	Net.
W. H. Sands, St. Andrews	98	5	93
Victor Sorchan, Newport	102	6	96
Quincy A. Shaw, Jr., Boston	103	6	97

The final match began under an almost August sun this morning. The weather was so balmy, the air so quiet and the sun so hot that it was something of an effort, after the bracing weather of the past two days, to follow the players. There was a large attendance of golf lovers when play was started at 10:55 o'clock. Foulis, the Chicago professional, acted as caddie and coach for C. B. MacDonald of Chicago, while L. B. Stoddart, of St. Andrew's, the ex-amateur champion, performed a similar duty for his fellow clubman, C. E. Sands. The play was fast, and very good, and, as expected, MacDonald's greater skill and experience counted. He was at times nervous, but Sands's inexperience more than offset this. Often the latter received a favorable position, from which he should have made several holes, but lack of experience prevented his playing a winning stroke.

Sands led off, and on the second stroke drove into the bunker, MacDonald winning, 4 strokes to 7. The second hole saw almost the same play, and went to MacDonald, 5 to 8. In the third MacDonald landed in the ditch, and Sands, playing carefully, won, 4-5. The fourth went to MacDonald, on the same score, and he also took the next two, the scores being 4-6 and 6-9. The seventh saw MacDonald in another ditch, and Sands won, 5-6. The Chicago man took the eighth, 3-4, and the St. Andrews representative the ninth, 4-5. This closed the first round, MacDonald leading by 3 up, and scoring 45 strokes to 51 by Sands.

The second round gave MacDonald a further lead, and like the first was marked by very clever play, Sands doing some excellent work and seemingly improving as the match progressed. The tenth hole went to Chicago, 4-5, on a very pretty put. The eleventh was halved at 5, the first of the match. The twelfth went to MacDonald, 3-4, after the prettiest play of the day. Hole 13 was halved on 4, after another excellent exhibition, MacDonald driving from the tee to the edge of the green, one hundred and ninety yards, and Sands placing his own ball within six feet of his opponent's. MacDonald took the next, 5-7, having luck in getting out of a bunker. Sands foggled on the drive, and then was caught in the orchard. Hole 15 was halved in 5 after very even play. Sands took the sixteenth, 5-7, and the seventeenth, 5-6, while MacDonald took the eighteenth, 4-6, giving him a lead of 5 up at the end of the second round, or the middle of the game.

Tomorrow the open tournament will be played. It will be over an eighteen-hole course and strokes will count, the player making the rounds in the smallest number of strokes winning. Some very pretty play is expected, and Davis, the Newport instructor; Dunn and Campbell are depended upon to give a good exhibition of how the game should be played.

The handicap tournament, begun yesterday, seems to have ended then, as only three scores have been handed in.

Government Kansas Pacific Bonds Coming Due.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The Treasury Department gives notice that United States six per cent. bonds of the face value of $640,000, issued under the acts of July 1, 1862, and July 2, 1864, to the Kansas Pacific Railway Company, late the Union Pacific Railway, eastern division, and commonly known as "currency sixes," become due, and will be paid at the department on the first day of November, 1895, and that interest on the bonds will cease on that day.

Olympic Club of New Orleans Will not Bid for the Fight.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 3.—A telegram from New York last night stated that, as a result of the passing of the emergency bill by the legislature of Texas, the Olympic Club of this city has made a bid for the fight. There is no foundation for the report. The executive board of the club held a meeting last night, but had no authority to act in the matter and did not consider it. Under the present construction of the law in this state, it is not likely that a bid will be made for the fight.

Southern Trip of the "Orioles" and "Phillies" Abandoned.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—Manager Irwin of the Philadelphia base ball club announces that the proposed tour of the Philadelphia and Baltimore clubs through the South had been abandoned. When asked if he would manage the Philadelphia team next season Manager Irwin said: "I think not. I am negotiating for the management of an Eastern League team, and if I get that I shall quit Philadelphia."

Argentine Objects to Certain Treaty Provisions.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The Herald's special cable from Buenos Ayres says: Certain amendments to a treaty with the United States have been postponed for further consideration. They relate to the curtailment of the time for the delivery of deserters from warships, and are opposed by a party of senators who assert that desertion from vessels of the navy is included under the head of military offences and is not to be judged by the civil courts.

Italian Fetes Brought to a Brilliant Close.

ROME, Oct. 3.—The fêtes in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the occupation of Rome by Italian troops were brought to a brilliant close last night by a great popular demonstration. King Humbert in person presented the prizes to the victors in the shooting contests. Last night the city was brilliantly illuminated, the decorations showing beautifully in the bright artificial light. Much enthusiasm was manifested by the populace.

Missing Cashier Took Depositors' Money.

MOUNT VERNON, Ind., Oct. 3.—It has been learned that Albert Wade, assistant cashier of the First National Bank, who disappeared Monday, took with him $7,000 in gold and $3,000 in silver and paper belonging to the bank's depositors. The experts examining Wade's books are not yet ready to report.

Government Crisis Impending in Brazil.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 3.—The chamber of deputies has rejected the government's bill granting amnesty to certain persons who took part in the late rebellion. If the chamber should also reject the measures which have been submitted as substitutes for the amnesty bill it is regarded as certain that President Moraes will resign.

Treaty Between Canada and France Again Under Discussion.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—It is learned that the foreign office is again discussing a treaty between Canada and France. It is expected that the ratification of the convention will be exchanged in a few days.

Cuban Rebels Repulsed.

MADRID, Oct. 3.—A despatch to the Imparcial from Havana says that a detachment of the Cuenca battalion, under Lieutenant Sesma, repulsed two thousand rebels under Guerra near Puerto Padre September 22, killing and wounding several.

Violent Hurricane Off the British Coast.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—A violent hurricane is raging off Lundy Isle, at the entrance to the Bristol channel, and is increasing in intensity. Several casualties have been reported.

THE TRUTH ABOUT CUBA.

Cuba might well furnish the arena for a much greater conflict than is in progress. The island is 760 miles long and its greatest width is 135 miles. Over such a territory, diversified as it is with mountain chains, cane brakes and broad plains, campaigns of considerable importance might be conducted, employing large bodies of contestants. At present the contest is but a chain of petty skirmishes, raids and ambuscades. There seems to be a consensus of opinion that the active insurgents number from fifteen to twenty thousand, are poorly armed, and avoiding general engagements divide themselves into comparatively small bands which harass the Spanish supply trains, plantation guards and smaller garrisons. In adopting this policy the insurgents are wise in their generation, for the Spanish forces have to be broken up into detachments to watch as many bodies of insurgents.

As to the character of hostilities, there seems to be a substantial agreement between the official version sent out by the Spaniards and the letters of Mr. William Shaw Bowen, who is in Cuba as staff correspondent of the New York World. He says that the petty encounters that occur so frequently are invariably magnified by the Cuban sympathizers into "battles" and "victories." The Spanish accounts almost invariably end with the statement that the insurgents withdrew, and this assertion Mr. Bowen says is usually correct. A Spanish column on the march, guarding a supply train, falls in with a guerilla band; shots are exchanged, a few men are wounded, perhaps one or two killed, and the affair passes into history as an "engagement." The only engagement that has been fought so far that deserved the name of "battle" was that near Bayamo, in July, when the Spanish lost in killed, wounded and missing two hundred and fifty men, and the insurgents' casualties were not much larger. Spanish officers who have taken part in most of the engagements fought since last spring say that they have rarely seen any of their Cuban antagonists, the latter usually firing from ambush and then making off.

The stories of heroic charges by insurgents armed with machets, long knives set on poles, are pronounced absurdly untrue. Considering, however, that the Spaniards are armed with the Mahser rifle, which kills at twenty-five hundred yards, while the insurgents carry only such arms as they can pick up, it is no reproach to the latter that they do not make charges. Mr. Bowen thinks that the Cuban creoles are not a warlike people; that they are not fitted to attack regular troops in the open field, and his letters convey the impression that the Spaniards are more in danger of being worn out than driven out.

All this may be perfectly true without necessarily forecasting the final defeat of the insurgents in their aspirations for the freedom of Cuba. Spanish control may be stung to death by guerilla warfare, and let once the insurgents gather arms and equipments enough to show themselves in the open in the semblance of an organized army and they may count on recognition from some of the South American countries that bear a grudge against Spain.—[Boston Transcript.

WEATHER AND WEATHER WISDOM.

With Wordsworth and Tennyson began what might be called the weather cult; that is, the entire impenetration of the theme and motive with the moods of the atmosphere. Dickens may be said to have been the first novelist who pressed fog, wind and rain into his action as distinctly as characters of flesh and blood; and this impressionism has since been carried to its extreme limit in certain books of Victor Hugo's, Pierre Loti's, Black's and Craddock's. In "Travailleurs de la Mer" and "Pêcheur d'Islande," what might be called the meteorological novel is raised to its apotheosis. Maupassant, although generally confining himself to pure dramatic motive, has, in one of his short stories, giving an account of a timid lad left alone all winter in a hut at the top of the Gemmi Pass in Switzerland, described the desolation of a world of snow and the freezing cold with the most striking effect. In fact, all literature, from the "Œdipus Colloneus," where the protagonist is summoned by the thunder to meet the gods, and the "Odyssey," where Ulysses is forced to contend with wind, seas and waves roaring, down to the last new novel—which "gives us pause," between the hero's stammered words of love, to recount the rising of a cloud, the re-gathering of the winds, a sudden opening in the drift of billowy vapors revealing the moon in a quiet sky trembling with misty stars,—is more or less colored by the old indestructible instinct vitalizing and animating earth, air, fire and water, seeing spirits frown in the clouds and smile in the sunshine.

Sculpture can find little motive in the incompleteness, the sense of transition, which characterizes the weather, and in painting, the pictures of Salvator Rosa, Gustave Doré and others, in striving after the passion and intensity of over-striking natural effects, show that such attempts are apt to result in the bizarre. Some critics would say the same of the great Turner himself; yet the wonderful force and vitality of his storms at sea are their own justification, while his Frosty Morning, and his countless studies of Venice, London and the Alps, under every possible aspect of sky and cloud, point to a clear knowledge of, besides an insatiable desire to fathom, the secret of all weather phenomena. Not a few painters have studied some single condition of the landscape—a clear, lucid, wind-swept atmosphere, Indian summer haze, or gathering tempest—maintaining that special phase as the very essence of their whole work. No one more skillfully than Constable has used all the meaning of tossing clouds, contrasts of sunlight and shadow, to give his pictures the movement, drama, breath and pulsation of life. Ruysdael knew nature's own harmonizing secret, whether he depicted storm or calm, and Hobbema invariably expresses the sentiment of the weather; in tempest, his trees seem to feel the stir of the wind to their inmost trembling fibre. Corot painted first his skies, or, it might better be said, his clouds; then so reflected their color in every detail of the landscape that no painter has ever, perhaps, so truly yet so unobtrusively succeeded in giving an impression of the passing influences of the weather. His pools not only image the skies, but tremble at the breath of the breeze; his trees shiver and sway; the very grass shows a premonition of change. Cazin, again, employs every mood of nature; and to speak of Manet and Monet and Whistler is to suggest the trick of changing lights before storm, the flight of a shower across harvest fields, a beautiful phase of weather which is only a phase; the subtly varied monotony of a glimmering, watery expanse under a great dusky sky, touched by the indefinable effluence, half smoke, half mist, which floats above cities. These vapory effects of weather give a large part of their charm to the landscapes of Diaz, Rousseau, Dupre, and, above all, Daubigny. Little as Millet used the landscape except as a background, often enough the painful toil of his peasants is accented by the gloom of the listless, empty sky, the low, hurrying, threatening clouds and the herbage shuddering in the wind.—[Ellen Olney Kirk, in October Atlantic.

THE MAGAZINES.

The October number of Romance has a pleasing cover printed in purple and green, and the reading matter is no less attractive and varied. Conan Doyle's pathetic story is illustrated with pen and ink drawings—a recent departure for this magazine, and the other noteworthy tales are Barry Pain's humorous sketch of a spoiled child, called "The Spoiling of Veronica;" Aimee, a touching love story with the lurid background of the French Revolution, by George W. Ellis; a translation from the French, entitled "A Court-Martial," and several sketches of a light and pleasing character.

There is wide variety in the contents of the October number of St. Nicholas. It opens with a familiar sketch by John J. a' Becket of "The Child-Painter: J. G. Brown," illustrated with reproductions of some of his most famous pictures. Professor Brander Matthews continues his series of studies of great American authors with a paper on James Russell Lowell. James Baldwin, who seems to have a particular sympathy for horses, writes of "Bayard," noted in legendary history as the war-horse of a French chieftain in the days of Charlemagne, and finally put to death, as bewitched, by order of the great emperor. In his "Hero Tales from American History," Theodore Roosevelt tells the thrilling story of Lieutenant Cushing and the blowing up of the Confederate ram "Albemarle." Captain S. A. Swinnerton describes the ingenious manner in which a vessel "Aground in the Amazon" was gotten afloat again. The latest chapter in William T. Hornaday's "Quadrupeds of North America" is devoted to the manatee, tapir and peccary. Elbridge S. Brooks brings his "A Boy of the First Empire" to an end with the fall of Napoleon and his deportation to St. Helena. "Teddy and Carrots," by James Otis, carries along the adventures of the two brave little waifs in New York. The first half of "Yamoud," by Henry Willard French, is an exciting story of the slave stealers of the African desert. "Hans the Otherwise," as pictured by John Bennett, was a boy who succeeded in answering all the questions of the terrible Baron of Nod, which for years had perplexed the wise men of the kingdom. There are the usual number of verses and jingles, and the illustrations are up to the high standard of this magazine.

Lincoln's apprehensive distrust of marriage is revealed in some extremely interesting letters from the great President in the October Ladies' Home Journal, in which John Gilmer Speed discusses "Lincoln's Hesitancy to Marry." The letters are given publicity for the first time, and are addressed to Lincoln's most intimate friend, Joshua Speed. Edward S. Martin presents a review of the various theories advanced by scientists in the effort to definitely locate the Garden of Eden site, and shows how far from solution is the problem. Dr. Parkhurst's October article treats of "Religion in the Family," and is one of the most forcible arguments that has come from his pen. "The Woman Who Most Influenced Me" series of papers is enriched by a contribution from Thomas Wentworth Higginson. Edward W. Bok editorially discusses "Where American Life Really Exists," and outlines those communities where its best and purest phases are found. Robert J. Burdette contributes "The Strike in the Choir," a humorous article in his brightest vein. How to fit up and furnish "A Japanese Room" is told and illustrated by F. Schuyler Mathews, and Nancy Houston Banks writes of "A Painter of Miniatures." Mr. Bangs has another report of "The Paradise Club," and Elizabeth W. Bellamy's serial, "The Luck of the Pendennings," is increasing in interest. "Early Autumn Costumes" are described by Isabel A. Mallon, and "Novelties in Dress Designs" by Emma M. Hooper, Miss Underwood illustrating both. In the same issue are suggestions for evening parties and church festivals, helpful, practicable papers, a guide to scrap-book making, etc. Ruth Ashmore discusses "The Girl and Her Church," and Maria Parloa "The Science of French Cooking," while the usual attractive departments are complete. In its offerings of poetry the October Journal is unusually engaging. Eugene Field's "Dream-Ship" is, perhaps, his best effort along the more ambitious lines of verse-making; W. L. Taylor has exquisitely illustrated the poem. The best works of such artists as W. L. Taylor, B. West Clinedinst, Frank O. Small, Alice Barber Stephens, Abby E. Underwood and F. Schuyler Mathews are shown in the current issue.

This Morning's News.

IN A STATE OF SIEGE.

Disturbances at Constantinople Assume Formidable Proportions.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—A dispatch from Constantinople gives the following version of the riot which occurred there. Several Armenians on Monday started on their way to the gate of the sultan's palace, where justice is usually administered, with the intention of presenting to the grand vizier a protest against the government. Warning had been given to the officials, and, at their orders, all the approaches to the palace were blocked with police.

A conflict occurred between Armenians and police. Probably about 60 Turks and Armenians were killed and many wounded.

On Tuesday several more were killed. Tuesday night 80 were killed. Several hundred persons have been imprisoned. Much terror exists.

The serious apprehensions felt by the Turkish authorities and the precaution taken by them to keep the military force in the garrison constantly under arms on account of the fear aroused by the riot precipitated on Monday by the Armenians of this city are shown to be amply justified by the further outbreaks which occurred.

It is only by personal investigation that those seeking news of the disturbance can secure any details, as the lips of all native and government officials are closed, and no reliable information from official sources regarding the riot can be had.

The Armenian quarter of the city is deserted and quiet as the grave. This is the quarter which usually presents the scene of greatest animation and life, the shops and great bazaars attracting throngs of chattering traders. The authorities have closed the shops and peremptorily forbid the gathering of groups in the streets of the quarter, and to insure the observance of this order the streets are constantly patrolled by military.

The guards who are stationed at the gate of Tounnayan (the' high door of the Sublime porte") of the seraglio or sultan's palace were also strongly re-enforced in apprehension of an attempted attack upon the person of the sovereign.

Officials' Lives in Danger.

Carriages, which were conveying the ministers of the interior, of foreign affairs and of the police to the council, which was convened to consider measures for suppressing the disturbance, were pierced by bullets, as they passed through the streets, fired from arms in the hands of the Armenian citizens. The public officials in the carriages escaped injury from the flying bullets, so far as has been learned. Many passers-by in the streets were not so fortunate, and the latest accounts of the number killed and wounded place it at 80.

The great church of the Patriarchate, located in the Greek quarter, which was the scene of the first outbreak on Monday, is now surrounded by troops. The Kumkapu quarter is also in a state of siege.

With regard to the death of Serivet Bey, one of the officers who was killed in Monday's riot at the Patriarchate, the following details are learned. It is alleged that he called the Armenian bearer of the petition which it was sought to present to the "grand vizier Ghiour." This is equivalent to saying "infidel dog," and is a term of approbrium used by the Turks toward those who do not follow the prophet Mohammed. The Armenian objected to this, and the quarrel increased in heat until the shooting began.

It is reported that a number of Armenians broke into the law courts of the city during the disorder and killed two judges. The murderers were recognized and were subsequently arrested.

An Armenian cashier, employed in the department of customs of this city, has been assassinated, and this crime, it is believed, was actuated by motives of political revenge.

There is a vague and widespread feeling of apprehension here in all circles caused immediately by the outbreaks, but fed by doubt of how far the discontent may extend and where its breaking out is to be looked for next.

An Entering Wedge.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Mr. Sill, United States minister to Korea, has informed the department of state that his Korean majesty has granted a limited mining franchise to James R. Morse, an American citizen. There have been many attempts at mining and the obtaining of mining franchises here by people of various nationalities. This is the first instance in which the right has been formally given over the king's seal.

Fireworks Exploded.

JERSEY CITY, Oct. 3.—An explosion occurred yesterday in Dotwiler's fireworks factory. Five employes were badly injured, all except one of them being boys from 14 to 16 years of age. The roman candle factory, in which the explosion occurred, was burned to the ground.

Parade Six Miles Long.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 3.—The feature of the second day of Merchants' week celebration was the parade. It was six miles in length and was the greatest display of the kind ever seen here. It took nearly two hours for it to pass a given point.

Stole $10,000.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Charles Gore, who absconded with $10,000 belonging to the New York Herald, and was brought back from Burlington, Vt., pleaded guilty before Judge Cowing and was remanded for sentence.

Death of General Poe.

DETROIT, Oct. 3.—General O. M. Poe of the United States corps of engineers, who had charge of the 20-foot channel project through the great lakes and their connections, died here yesterday.

Coining on Their Own Hook.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—For two or three months past the United States secret service bureau has been in receipt of complaints from various parts of the eastern country concerning the prevalence of spurious coin, mainly half dollars, quarters and dimes, made of pure silver. Chief Linn and Officer Burns immediately set actively to work on the case, and the first result of their investigations was the arrest here of Max Frankel, Moses Rosenstein, Jacob Friedman, Jacob Fineburg and Frank Silberman. It was learned that these men were only part of an organized gang working throughout the country, and the disposition of their cases will be held in abeyance until the leaders could be taken. This was accomplished yesterday when Henry Greenburg and Julius Stolu were captured in New York. Detectives found in the cellar of a house in a New Jersey town an entire coiner's outfit. There was an immense iron press, used for stamping; a number of dies; between 600 and 700 pounds of nickel, the same as that used by the government, and a quantity of pure silver, which were used in the manufacture of bogus dimes, quarters and halves.

Lamont Said to Be Angry.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The World's Washington correspondent says that Secretary Lamont feels indignant that information conveyed to General Miles, in a private conversation, to the effect that the latter was to be appointed head of the army, should be heralded to the country through a newspaper interview before the president made the official announcement. President Cleveland is known to be extremely opposed to official loquacity. That Secretary Lamont's indignation finds a counterpart in the presidential mind, goes without saying.

BATTLE OF PITCHERS.

Spiders Win the First Game in the Temple Cup Series.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 2.—Cleveland is baseball mad. Heretofore Cleveland audiences have been rather quiet, but the intense rivalry between the Orioles and home club stirred the people up to a high pitch. The rooting, tooting, ringing of bells and clapping of hands throughout the contest was something unprecedented in the history of the game here. The game was close and exciting throughout. It was a battle of pitchers from start to finish, and was anybody's game up to the instant the last man was out.

To Cigaret Smokers.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 3.—An experiment on the effects of cigaret smoking was made at Brown university yesterday. A healthy young man was selected, and after inhaling cigaret smoke a few minutes it was shown that cigaret smoking affected the heart's action. Smoke from a pipe or cigar had comparatively no effect on the heart's action.

It is quite likely that the coroner of New Haven may again take up the case of the Adams child, which died after receiving treatment from the Christian Scientists of this city and Boston.

Shrewd Swindler.

MALDEN, Mass., Oct. 3.—A swindler has been operating in this city, and has left for parts unknown. He represented himself as a builder, showing plans of houses, which he agreed to put up for a very small sum. A number of people advanced the stranger sums of money, from $25 to $100, to bind the bargain, and in this way he is said to have obtained from $1500 to $2000.

Myer Not Guilty.

NANTUCKET, Mass., Oct. 3.—The second day of the October term of the superior court was devoted to the case against A. C. Myer, charged with violating the election laws and with criminal libel against Allen Coffin in being a party to the printing and circulating of certain circulars last winter which attacked Coffin. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

A Gratifying Beginning.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Following the dedication of McMahon hall, the Catholic university yesterday opened its doors to lay students. During the day between 35 and 40 lay students applied for admission. This was much above what was expected.

"SEC. 18. Any court or officer whose duty it is to pass upon the account of any person or corporation required by law to give a bond, may, whenever such person or corporation has given any such surety company as surety upon said bond, allow in the settlement of such account a reasonable sum for the expense of procuring such surety.

"SEC. 19. Any company which shall execute any bond as surety, under the provisions of this act, shall be estopped in any proceedings to enforce the liability which it shall have assumed to incur, to deny its corporate power to execute such instruments or assume such liability.

Said notice to be served on such person or party not less than fourteen days before the return day thereof and from and after such service and return all orders and proceedings of such court in such cause shall be as effective in binding the person named in such notice as if the proper notice of the pendency of such matter or cause had been duly issued and served upon the commencement of such matter or cause in the court of probate.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The session of the Sunday school convention of the New England Conference of African Methodist Episcopal Churches was continued at Touro Chapel yesterday afternoon, President W. D. Johnston presiding and C. H. Wilson of Worcester acting as secretary.

Reports were received from various committees and from the following places, on Sunday school work. Providence, Cambridgeport, Greenwich, Springfield, Worcester, Everett, Jamestown, Chelsea and Fall River. The reports from Chelsea and Jamestown were commended. The latter has had a church only a few months, and already has a good, though not large school. Fall River has no Sunday school, and the fact provoked a long and very interesting discussion, in which the race issue played its part. It was explained that the children in Fall River go to other Sunday schools because the accommodations and teachers are better than their own church can offer. Some advocated this method, but the great majority said that if the church is to be maintained it must bring up the children in its own schools, and that parents must be urged to send them there. It was held that the success of the church is due to the fact that it is entirely colored, and has grown through the exertions of the negro race alone; that it must continue to live through these efforts, and that it cannot amalgamate with the whites. Several speakers showed a tendency to revert to the Southern race question, but were promptly called back to the matter under discussion, the proper management of the Sunday school question in New England.

After the business session the visitors were entertained at supper in the Sunday school room. In the evening there was a service consisting of singing by the choir, with a solo by Mrs. Harding of Greenwich, Conn.; prayer by Rev. Henderson Davis of Providence, an address of welcome by Mr. Benjamin Brown of Newport and a sermon by Rev. J. A. Morgan of Chelsea.

At the session this morning reports were received from south Norwalk, Lynn, Kane street and Central Falls missions, Newport, New Bedford and Bridgeport.

There was a discussion regarding the advisability of having the Sunday school minutes printed in the conference report.

Rev. W. H. Thomas presented resolutions on the illness of Rev. Isaac Sands of Norwich, which were adopted. Mr. Thomas also introduced the following resolution from George T. Downing:

"Resolved, That this Sunday school convention of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, assembled in the City of Newport, R. I., express as follows:

"That, Whereas our hope that our children will be fully relieved from the dejecting American prejudice based on color to which we colored Americans are subjected lies to a very great degree in educating the rising generation of the dominant race not to defy God by being respecters of persons, we entreat school teachers in Sunday schools of all denominations to make the breeding down of caste in the land, based on color, a special subject of concern: that we also pray that the pulpits of all creeds be no less consistent in their actions and teachings.

These were dismissed by Rev. W. H. Shields, Rev. J. H. Morgan, Dr. Thomas and Presiding Elder Feltz, and were finally adopted.

The following program was announced for this evening, when the convention will close. Essay on practical religion, Miss E. N. Jackson of Providence; essay, "Do the young people have proper respect for all forms of Christian worship?" by Miss Delaphin Harris of Worcester; singing, reports, and benediction by Rev. Dr. Feltz.

A CASE AGAINST A POLO PLAYER.

There was a hearing at Hingham, Mass., Tuesday, in the case brought against G. R. Shaw, 2d., a well known polo player, by the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The agents of the society claimed that Mr. Shaw hit the pony on the head with the mallet, turned him more quickly than did the other riders and had the pony bleeding at the nose and on the sides. Messrs. Shaw, Appleton and Gardner of polo fame and a number of other witnesses testified to the conditions of the play, which were not different from that at any polo game. Shaw said that the bleeding of the pony was from the mouth, the result of an accidental blow from the ball, and that he was not cut by the spurs. The case has not yet been decided.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mr. John Whipple of Leesburg, Va., is in town.

—Mr. Charles H. Seattle has returned from the White Mountains.

—Captain H. B. Rider of Dennisport, Mass., is in town for a few days.

—Mr. T. E. Stillman of Brooklyn has leased the J. W. Auchincloss villa for next season.

—Schooner Urbana, Captain Tyler, arrived last night with a cargo of coal for Perry Brothers.

—Dr. Henry Lippincott, who has been stationed at Fort Adams, has been transferred to Fort Sheridan, Ill.

—Major Cushing and family will leave tomorrow for New York, where they will make their home hereafter.

—Whipple & Son have rented for Mrs. Hazard her cottage on Parker avenue to Mme. Polifeme of New York for next season.

—Mr. Townsend's furniture, damaged at this morning's fire, was insured for $500 in the Glens Falls Insurance Company of New York, through the agency of Henry Bull, Jr.

—DeBlois & Eldridge have rented for Mrs. Julia H. Eldridge her cottage on the corner of Ruggles and Ochre Point avenues, to Mr. Henry T. Sloane of New York, for the season of 1896.

—Mrs. Hannah Peabody, wife of William H. Peabody, died in Berkeley, Cal., September 18. Mr. Peabody left Newport nearly twenty years ago for California, and married and settled there. He has many friends and relatives here and in Middletown.

—There are some people, and they do not all live near the electric light works, who think that if the new fire alarm whistle is to sound as it did last night, it is needless to keep the fire alarm bells in repair, for the sound of the bells was almost drowned by the noise of the whistle.

—Yesterday the Fall River base ball team had its benefit game at Fall River, the Bostons being their opponents. Jack Cotter of this city played first for the Bostons, and made two singles and a double. The Bostons won as they pleased, 13 to 6. This closed the base ball season in Fall River.

—The Newport Police Relief Association added $670 to its fund as the result of the benefit performances of "Girl Wanted." The association has recently received a $25 subscription from Mr. T. A. Havemeyer and one of $20 from Mrs. C. H. Baldwin, making a total of $1,035 received this year from subscriptions. The committee are grateful to the patrons of their entertainment.

THE BIDS FOR THE NEW GUNBOATS.

There must be a great deal of expert investigation into the gunboat bids received at the Navy Department before Secretary Herbert can decide to whom the contracts shall go. The consideration of one bid is relieved by the fact that an ancient treaty with Great Britain prohibits building a warship on the Great Lakes. This is the bid of the Detroit Dry Dock Company, and while that firm may contest the point the officials here some years ago went over the ground so thoroughly and obtained such opinions from international law authorities as settled the question for all time, or at least until some other arrangement can be made with England. It is curious to note in connection with the bids of this firm that, while other builders gave $10,000 as the price of an electric plant for the gunboats, the Detroit company placed the cost of this equipment at less than $3,000.

The figures given by the bidders do not by any means settle the matter of award, for the reason that the most acceptable proposals contain many modifications of the departmental requirements, and it will be necessary to go over the various propositions and ascertain the best offer made. For instance, the Bath Iron Works, which ordinarily might receive the contract for two of the vessels, has not included the distilling plant, the heating apparatus or the duplicate parts in the proposal which it submits. All these items are indispensable, and are omitted by the bidder that he may bring his bid within the amount available. Nevertheless, it will be necessary for the Navy Department to purchase the omitted items if the Bath people do not embrace them in their contract, and this outside purchase will increase the cost of the ship. It is still a question whether the Secretary can resort to this method to keep down the apparent cost by combining the contract price within the available sum.

The bid of Lewis Nixon, the ex-naval constructor, who appears for the first time since he resigned from the Cramps' employ as an independent bidder, is said to substitute cast iron for steel in some portions of the ship. It will be a matter for technical authorities to determine whether this substitution is acceptable.

The most surprising thing about the bids is the fact that the Union Iron Works offered to build the twin-screw ships for $20,000 less than the sum asked for the sailing craft. The constructors made the ships with machinery materially more expensive than the ships with canvas. The bid of the Dialogue firm of Camden, N. J., is also on a modified specification.

MIDDLETOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

Middletown was fairly aroused last evening, when one of the largest entertainments ever given in the town took place at the town hall. The program arranged was successfully carried out, the one fault found being that there was not room for many of those who came. The hall was filled to its utmost capacity, every inch of room being used; the council room was thrown open and some found seats there, while many were obliged to go away without being able to gain entrance.

The pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Rev. F. L. Brooks, opened the exercises by an appropriate address, which was followed by a selection by the Berkeley orchestra. Then came a pantomimic representation of the Norsemen and aborigines, the characters being in appropriate costumes. The Goddess of Liberty entered and the old man representing the Wisdom of Centuries made an address of welcome to the goddess. The church choir sang and Mr. Frank T. Peckham gave a cornet solo, which was followed by the introduction of the thirteen colonies and a fancy drill by thirteen small girls, the entrance of Columbus, and the singing of "Hail Columbia," by the choir. Master John Ward presented the flag to the goddess, and his speech was so well rendered as to deserve great praise from all present. The choir sang "The Star Spangled Banner," there was reading by Robert Smith, and a solo, "Memory of Washington" by John Peckham. Then came the entrance of the states, each representative wearing a white robe with a sash of blue upon which was inscribed the name of a state, and carrying a crown and a flag. As each entered and took her appropriate place on the stage she gave a brief address, setting forth the characteristics of the state she represented. When all were in place they joined in singing "The Red, White and Blue." The territories then asked for admission to the Union, and Columbia bade them welcome, providing each took his appropriate place and kept silent. At the close all joined in singing "America."

Every one seemed to enjoy the entertainment and congratulated the energetic and hard-working pastor, whose efforts had made the affair a decided success. A photograph of the spectacle was taken by Mr. S. Stiff of Fall River, and made a picture well worth having. Ice cream and cake were served at the close.

Mrs. John R. Peckham is guest of her brother, Mr. Lionel H. Peabody and family.

Mrs. Caroline Coit, Mr. Samuel Almy and Miss Mattie Almy were guests of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Peckham yesterday.

Mrs. Sarah Gould is visiting in town.

Miss Etta Burgess is visiting Miss Emmie P. Blair.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Wyatt and their daughter and Mrs. Mead were guests of Mr. Charles Wyatt yesterday.

Mr. Henry C. Sherman is building a new crib on his farm on the East Main road.

Mr. William Dawson of Providence is in town for a day or two.

GOLF GOSSIP.

Golf rages with virulence at Newport and abates proportionately at Lenox. Mr. Theodore A. Havemeyer, the president of the league of clubs, does the honors of the handsome house at the former place with his accustomed cordiality. Here are gathered golfers from all over the United States to participate in this important occasion. Socially the event is of interest because it affords people an excuse for staying in the country late, and so fills a long felt want. This is the pleasantest season of the year in many localities. In England it is the fashion to remain in the country during these months. We are, year by year, becoming more and more addicted to English customs, and to this pleasant habituation to country life.

Among yesterday's players was Rev. Dr. W. S. Rainsford of St. George's Church of this city, who preached at Newport last Sunday. The doughty cleric is an enthusiastic golfer, and misses no opportunity of indulging in his favorite pastime. His opponent at the links was Mr. Richard Peters, who astonished the natives (and the foreigners, too) by appearing on the scene with a billiard cue under his arm. Whenever a particularly difficult shot came his way he carefully took sight with the cue, for the purpose apparently of testing his aim. This is an innovation, but whether one that will find favor among golfers I am not prepared to say. As an aid to one's play I fancy the cue might be valuable, particularly to a skillful billiard player. If these methods are to prevail, by and by we may see a crack golfite come on the links attended by a corps of engineers carrying the paraphernalia of the surveying field, to take sights of difficult plays. Meanwhile the billiard cue as a golf implement remains the peculiar device of Mr. Richard Peters.—[New York Mail and Express.

POLICE NOTES.

Dennis Kelly was before the court this morning on a charge of truancy. He was sent to the Sockanossett school for boys.

Robert Robertson has retracted his plea of not guilty to a charge of assaulting his wife, and has been fined $10 and costs.

James F. Sullivan and Philip S. McManus, alias George Godfrey, were arraigned on a charge of sleeping out. They were found in Edwin G. Spooner's barn on Edward street. They pleaded not guilty and were bound over until Friday.

"THE GIRL I LEFT BEHIND ME."

The drama, "The Girl I Left Behind Me," which will be presented at the Opera House this evening by one of Gustave Frohman's companies, ran for months at the fashionable Empire Theatre in New York, after its initial production, and was revived last winter at the Academy of Music, the largest theatre in the city, where thousands of people were thrilled with the great stockade scenes in the third act. Perhaps the judicious mingling of social incident, the flirting and fun that are sure to happen when soldiers and pretty girls are thrown together, and the exciting war scenes explain this success with different classes. But even without its pretty girls and the brilliant ball at Camp Kennion, there is enough fire and stir in the stockade scene to fill any audience with enthusiasm.

The New York Telegram says: "The presence of the golfers in Newport has been the inspiration of a round of dinner parties. In the annals of dinner-giving at Newport this season, Mrs. Calvin Brice stands pre-eminent. She not only entertained finely but frequently. Mrs. Kearny also gave and is giving brilliant dinner parties, as is Mrs. Henry Clews, who has entertained more dinner companies than ever before this season. Sixteen to twenty is her usual number of guests. She has given dinner parties at the rate of three a week."

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
